What is Furthrive's GPS?

Furthrive GPS is a new kind of wireless dog fence that lets your pets safely explore a certain area without having to set up physical fences or lines.

It uses advanced GPS to make invisible borders that can be changed to fit anywhere from 1 foot to 1,000 feet in radius.

This method lets dog owners keep their pets from going off on their own while still being able to use it in any place, from the backyard to camping trips.

The device is waterproof and weatherproof, so it will always work, no matter the weather. It doesn't charge regular fees or have GPS delays, so it's a cheap and quick way to keep pets safe.

The system has customized training modes with static corrections, vibrations, and beeps. These help dogs learn their limits quickly and well.

How does it work?

Furthrive GPS uses modern GPS technology to set an invisible boundary around your pet.

By changing the signal radius, the system lets you set a customized containment zone that can be anywhere from 20 to 1,000 feet. Once the limit is set, the collar your dog wears can sense when they get close to the edge of the area.

If they get too close, the collar beeps, vibrates, or gives a small electric shock as a warning. This trains your pet to stay in the right area.

The collar is waterproof and lightweight, so it will last long enough to be used in any kind of weather. The system doesn't need to be physically connected, and there are no costs after the first purchase, like regular fees or subscriptions.

Since Furthrive GPS is movable, you can bring it with you when you go camping, visit family, or go on any other adventure. This way, your pet is always safe, no matter where you are.
